TALK OF THE TOWN

Everything in wash goods at Abbott's. C. R. Jerue left this morning for Springfield, Mass., where he expects to pass the remainder of the summer.

Fandom here in Barre will be without its week-end portion of baseball to-morrow, as the management of the Italian A. C. has not arranged a game at Inter-city park.

Mr. and Mrs. Riley Burgess of the Montpelier road returned yesterday from a week's automobile trip through New Hampshire and Maine, in the course of which Mrs. Burgess visited her old home in the latter state.

Mrs. C. N. Barber of the East Montpelier road has gone to Burlington to pass a few days with her son, Capt. C. N. Barber, who is stationed at Fort Ethan Allen.

Restrictions which the board of health are enforcing about town as a precaution against infantile paralysis are not to interfere materially with church services in Barre to-morrow, albeit children under 16 are debarred from attending places of public worship.

TALK OF THE TOWN

Miss Marion F. Stickney left yesterday for a few days' visit in Randolph.

Mrs. Fitch R. Wiley returned to-day from a two weeks' visit in Greensboro.

Mrs. F. R. Jameson and daughter left yesterday for Montreal, where they will visit for a few weeks.

Mrs. Blanche Nourse of North Main street is passing several days with her father, John R. Wilson, in Worcester.

Floyd Pombrio returned yesterday to Beverly, Mass., after spending a few days at his home on Seminary street.

Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Rowell and daughter, Gladys, of Washington street are spending a few days with relatives in Williamstown.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank A. Gove and family of Eastern avenue left this morning for Niggerhead pond, where they will spend several weeks camping.

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Goodrich, Paul Goodrich and Miss Celia Goodrich were recent visitors in the city, making the trip from their home in South Royalton by automobile.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Buttrick of Orange street, who accompanied Burlington friends on an automobile trip through northern New York, have returned to the city.

John B. Magnaghi of Washington street, who is taking a vacation of two weeks from his duties at the plant of the Presbrey-Coykendall company, with Mrs. Magnaghi has gone to Westbury, R. I., for a visit of two weeks.

Miss Hazel Partridge of Worcester, Mass., until recently a member of the faculty at Spaulding high school, called on friends in the city yesterday. With her mother, Miss Partridge is passing several weeks in Brookfield.

The D. A. Perry Real Estate agency has sold for Mrs. E. A. Cutler her farm, known as the Farnham farm, situated in Waita River. The purchasers are Walter T. Allen and Arthur Lombard of Northfield, who have bought the farm for a home and who will take possession of it at once.

Matthew Haley of Maple avenue, who spent some time in Barre while getting ready to launch his summer monument setting campaign, has gone to Amsterdam, N. Y., there to start a gang of men on the work of setting a memorial of Barre granite to the man who invented the button. From Amsterdam he will go to Angola, Ind., there to supervise the setting of the stone of Barre granite which is to commemorate the dead of Indiana soldiers and sailors who died in the war of 1861-65.

On the bulletin board at the Vincitia club is posted an excerpt from a letter written by Charles L. Brown, late of the Spaulding high school faculty, who is in the officers' training camp at Plattsburg. Mr. Brown expresses solid satisfaction with the way things are going in the big camp and mentions the fact that Messrs. Hubbard and Ryan of the faculty called at Plattsburg while they were on their way home from school. Friends of Mr. Brown will be interested to learn that he is out of the infirmary now, after having been confined as a tonsillitis patient.

Vincent Catto, a Berlin street grocer, is recovering from the effects of a painful accident which occurred while he was motoring near Waterbury recently. A Waterbury item gives the following account of his mishap: "Vincent Catto of Barre received a painful injury while motoring near here Wednesday evening. In some manner his car skidded and the lurching of the machine threw him sharply against the side of the seat. He retained his grip on the wheel, however, and guided his car into the middle of the road, but a later examination disclosed a deep cut in his right leg."

William Pirie, who maintains a camp near the Meadow Brook golf course off Brook street, has enlisted the aid of the authorities in an effort to run down the marauders who broke into his lodge sometime around the Fourth and did considerable damage. The camp contained a number of valuables, some of which were missing when the owner visited the place Wednesday morning, preparatory to spending the day on the golf course. Mr. Pirie's camp is located on a wooded eminence overlooking the links and not far from the newly erected club house. The club building, however, was not visited by the marauders. Constable G. L. Morris was called to the camp Thursday and yesterday two or three clues were being investigated.

The July number of "Barre Granite," the official publication of the Granite Manufacturers' association, is in the hands of subscribers, who must note with satisfaction that the little journal is growing more and more to be an accurate reflector of conditions in the granite trade. The editors have adopted a policy of enlivening the columns with half-tones and in the current issue there are likenesses of Dr. H. Nelson Jackson and W. E. Corry, figures in the granite industry who are serving under American colors in the war for democracy, the former as a medical officer in the reserve corps and the latter with an ambulance unit in France. "Granite Manufacturers Confine Themselves Too Closely" is the caption of an interesting article in which the men who make up Barre's wide-awake organization are urged to take a minimum vacation of two weeks. One follows the processes of argumentation taken by the writer and concludes that, after all, a vacation is an essential factor in the granite business as well as in the office and the shop.

Man's love of a grim jest, especially if the butt of that jest is a dumb beast, is exemplified in characteristic fashion in a foxhound which is at Dr. O. E. Barr's veterinary hospital on Cottage street with only a fighting chance for its life, as the result of long exposure in the woods of Plainfield. The hound, a valuable member of the fox hunting species, was owned by a chauffeur at the Dillon garage in Montpelier, and two weeks ago it disappeared. The hound's disappearance failed to disclose any information concerning the disappearance of the hunter and it was not until E. H. Slayton, a Plainfield farmer, discovered the animal in his pasture that the circumstances became known. Someone with a badly distorted sense of humor had tied a can to one of the dog's legs and in attempting passage through a clump of raspberry bushes, the rope became tangled in the briars and held the hunter fast. Mr. Slayton's attention was directed to the starving dog by the antics of his own shepherd dog, and his investigation disclosed the foxhound in a cruelly emaciated condition. It is thought that the animal had been in the raspberry thicket for 10 days. The tendon on the foot around which the rope had been tied was worn to a mere string, and if the dog is to survive, it will finish its days on three legs, as amputation was the first move made by the veterinarian when the hound was brought to the Cottage street hospital.
